At the Orpheum.

Tonight's bill at the Orpheum is a change of men that will show Hogan and his company in an entirely new phase. Ernest has shown such decided dramatic ability, aside from his genius as a vaudeville laughmaker and singer, that many will welcome this opportunity for the full display of his talents.
 There are others in the company, too, who have shown no little propensity for legitimate work, notably Miss Bradley, Miss Carter and Mr. Che-man. The latter trio are all well cast with good chances to display the full gamut of their abilities. As for Hogan himself, both as a happy-go-lucky colored tramp and the bogus Prince of Dahomey, as whom he palms himself off on non-hunting society, his opportunities are enormous and it goes without saying that he makes the utmost of them.

The play is a real bona fide musical comedy on the style of Hoyt's pieces and has been practically written for Honolulu, Hogan putting into it his latest compositions and Miss Bradley furnishing the book. The scenes are laid in Moanalua and Waikiki and the whole three acts are replete with musical numbers, among them the famous "Pas Ma La" written, composed and sung by Hogan. The enticing program should fill the house every night.
 The management of the Orpheum wish to give warning to the public to secure their seats in due time, as frequent disappointment occurs from delay in booking.

Tax Gatherers.

Pilot Macauley reports that two men, a Portuguese and a Japanese, called upon his yardboy Saturday and made him pay the sum of $6 for taxes for 1900. The taxes are not delinquent until March 31, and then 10 per cent is added. The boy was threatened with arrest unless he paid $6. A receipt signed in blank was given when the money was paid. Captain Macauley will investigate the matter and try to find out who the additional one dollar is for.

Agassiz on the China.

Prof. A. Agassiz, the well known scientist, was a through passenger in the China. He is returning home after a visit to the Colonies and the Orient.
 While in Japan, Professor Agassiz lectured on the Abolition of the Exemption and the formation of coral islands before the Law Department of the Tokyo University.

The Nihau, from Kauai Saturday, brought 5,640 bags of sugar. She reports 90,000 bags on Kauai.

PLAGUE BILLS

 Epidemic.

SUPREME COURT SESSION.

Mandamus Case of the Wahiawa Sugar Company.

Just what step the lawyers opposing the present composition of the Supreme Bench will take to prove Chief Justice Judd's seat vacant is not known. It will be charged, so rumor says, that Chief Justice Judd has abandoned his office and is physically disqualified from holding it. Papers are being drawn for the new legal battle, but meanwhile those litigants who are satisfied with the absence of a Chief Justice, can try their cases before the two Associate Justices and a Circuit Judge.

Saturday the case of the Wahiawa Sugar Company in mandamus proceedings against the Minister of the Interior, was heard, Acting Circuit Judge Silliman sitting with Justices Whiting and Frear. Some time ago the sugar company applied for articles of incorporation and was refused on the grounds that their application was not specific in stating the ownership of certain shares of stock. Now the company seeks to force the Minister of the Interior to comply with their request.

Attorney General Cooper, Deputy Attorney General E. B. Dole and J. W.
 Cathcart represent the Minister, and Kinney, Ballou and McClaghahan appear for the sugar company.

Rita C. Tewksbury, inheritor of an undivided quarter interest in certain Honolulu property, asks for partitions in a bill in equity against Antonio G.
 Cunha, Zida Cunha, Frank A. Cunha, Mary Camara and J. M. Camara.

Victoria S. Ellis, administratrix of the estate of Nancy E. Ellis, deceased, gives notice in the Circuit Court that she has filed a motion to set a day for approval of her account.

A. F. Franca, who is sued by Edith Sanders for damages for alleged malicious prosecution, has filed a general denial of plaintiff's charges. She says Franca had her arrested for stealing a dog, and the Court found her not guilty.

Bella D. Friel, Wm. H. Cornwell, Kate L. Vida and Mary C. Widdfield acknowledge receiving from W. H.
 Cornwell and F. W. Macfarlane, executors under the will of Adella Cornwell, all papers connected with the half interest of Adella Cornwell in the quartz mining claim called the Sycamore mine, in White river district, Kern county, California.
